4 WEEKS IN OUR CARNOT'S SCHOOL

Alba Dujol, sixteen years old, comes from a town close to Barcelona. Lets talk about her life in Spain : she has a sister, Gemma, and a dog. Dogs an dolphins are her favourite animals. The name of her school is Manolo Hugue, which, she says, is a little school. She likes Philosophy and Italian, but she doesn't like school so much ; like the biggest part of young people I guess.

As she lives close to Barcelona, she speaks Castillan and Catalan. She speaks Castillan more than Catalan, with her family and at school ; she only speaks Castillan with some friends and a part of her family that lives far from Barcelona.

She loves travelling, and later she would like to go to Paris and Los Angeles ; that's one of the reason why she would like to be a journalist.

But for now, she is in France with us. She came to France because she likes that country and she is interested in its culture, and she's learning French for the same reasons (but also because she already speaks English so the choice between the two languages was easy). She's already come to France once in a trip with her school like the one she is doing this year, and once with her family. During those travels, she visited Carcassonne, La Provence and Bordeaux, but Bordeaux was her favourite. Alba likes French food, she loves to discover what we eat in France. In Spain, her favourite food is " Paella" and "Tortilla de Patatas".

Alba's town is very different from Roanne and it's much bigger. Also, there's a lot of differences between Roanne and her town in Spain : first of all, she told us how hard the hours of the class were, and how difficult it was to adapt herself to our mealtime. Now that's ok, but at the beginning it was quite difficult. Plus, she normally has two dance-classes a week in Spain, and since she arrived in France she hasn't danced at all, and this is a bit difficult too.

But some things do not change ; indeed, she was already friend with Laia and Anna before the trip, so they can discuss and be together sometimes.

So that's what I know about Alba, I would certainly like to know her better because she seems to be a really nice person. I hope she enjoyed her stay in France and that she will fullfill her dreams of going to Paris and to Los Angeles, and that one day she will be a journalist.

Good continuation Alba, it was a pleasure to meet you !
